

[To:]
Miss E. M. McGlynn
88 McKay Street
Beverly Massachusetts

[From:]
31210578
Sgt. D.E. Collins
303 Station Hosp.
A.P.O. 562 c/o P.M.
New York, N.Y.

April 26, 1944

Hello.

After all the mail mixup – the mail from you and the others at S.T.C. [Salem Teachers College] is nothing short of amazing. The Log came today and recently the “Newsletter” and a V-Mail from you.

George Freeman hasn’t written recently but so far still seems to be in Florida but awaiting active duty. He was at Harvard when last he wrote me.

You quote me as disliking the English countryside. In winter it is a dreary and depressing-like mood of most of their best literature. But now, with spring here it is really beautiful. “Our” estate is like a huge park with livestock roaming around. The gardens are among the best in the country. England is almost livable at this time of year. Maybe Browing was right after all.

Don.