Hello!

Thanks for the Christmas card and News Letter. Mail has been heavy and coming in bunches. It will take weeks of concentrated effort to get a large part of it answered.

Glad to see that you are back at school. You must have had it pretty rough for a spell. Over here we cough so regularly that when we get home cold won't bother us much.

Yesterday and today, we have had a taste of winter - snow and ice packed roads, last year we rode our bikes all thru the winter months. Once this year - around Christmas time - a hoar frost covered the ground and clung in icy crystals to the trees. Some of the southern boys thought it was snow. It really was more beautiful than snow. It doesn't cover, it clings.

London is still the same - still the ever present Buzz Bombs. How have people at home reacted to the Buzz Bomb scare?

Bye for now and thanks.

Don.
